

LIVE GLOBAL SUPPLY CHAIN SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

If your supply chain is global, then you must have transparency to its performance and behavior, in real time, anywhere on the planet.

Unique Situational Awareness Needs of a Life Sciences Supply Chain

Standard Operating Procedure Compliance

Intervention & Corrective Action

Inventory Right-Sizing

Quality Assurance

Trading Partner Collaboration

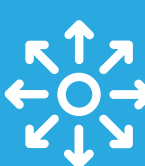

True Lead Times and Variances

Real Time Monitoring

Security

Capacity Planning

Lane Risk

Customer Orders

Network Resiliency

Stakes are High for Life Sciences

Life Sciences supply chains are unique. The timeliness, quality and security of the supply chain is critical to the health and welfare of individuals and large populations.

Adding to the complexity are the risks inherent with cold chain shipping and the security of the products while in transit. Managing service, cost, and insurability is significantly more effective with end-to-end transparency.

Validated Outcomes

$25M

In cost avoidance due to proactive intervention to save shipments – Top 5 global pharmaceutical company.

Proactive customer service for 270K+ daily deliveries using live courier tracking, digital proof of delivery and automated notifications across 19K routes – World's largest pharma distributor.

95% OTIF

Improve customer service by 3% and recalibrate inventory/safety stock levels during a transition from an 85% air freight delivery model to an 80% ocean freight model – leading global electronics manufacturer.

Core Design Considerations

Common operating picture provides a live connected view of the end-to-end global supply chain network – enterprise, ecosystem and external events.

Independent performance measurement to ensure service levels meet or exceed customer expectations.

Proactive and predictive risk mitigation and opportunity identification to improve resiliency and drive a competitive advantage.

Founded in 2012, TransVoyant is purpose built to turn complex supply chains into a competitive advantage. The digital world changes each day. We enable visionary customers to profit from this change.

Want more details? Great! Let's talk...

Request a Call

TRANSVOYANT